

A promotional poster for the Stanford Women's Volleyball team in 2008. The poster features five players in white jerseys and black shorts, with the Stanford 'S' logo on their uniforms. The background is a vibrant red with a faint, repeating pattern of the Stanford University redwood forest. In the upper corners, there are grayscale images of the Stanford Campanile tower and a palm tree. The central text 'STANFORD' is in large, bold, black letters with a white outline, and '2008' is in smaller red letters with a black outline. Below this, 'WOMEN'S VOLLEYBALL' is written in white letters with a black outline. A volleyball net is visible in the foreground, and a player is shown bumping a volleyball. The overall design is dynamic and energetic.

S STANFORD UNIVERSITY THE NATION'S PREMIER UNIVERSITY

The world all at once: Limitless possibilities are at the heart of Stanford University.

Global positioning systems and gene splicing, One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest and The Grapes of Wrath, the football huddle and the T-formation, Yahoo! and Google—all bear the mark of a Stanford individual. At Stanford, you will find the entire universe of what humankind knows and is endeavoring to know. From your first days on campus, this universe will be yours to explore, yours to discover. Stanford will ask that intellectual curiosity be your compass, that excellence be your true north.

Along the way, you will have the guidance of extraordinary faculty mentors who are at the forefront of advancing the world's understanding of subjects ranging from geophysics to history to bioscience to musical composition. You will also have the friendship of fellow students who will awe and inspire you as much for their humanity as for their talents. As you pursue the questions that interest you most, your mentors and friends will give you the freedom to risk temporary failure as you push yourself both intellectually and personally—along with the freedom and encouragement to pursue what you love.

Your reward will be the exhilaration of discovery—the exhilaration of true excellence.

S BEYOND CAMPUS SAN FRANCISCO BAY AREA

From bustling cosmopolitan cities to quiet coastal retreats, the San Francisco Bay Area is incomparable. First-class attractions, world-class athletics, cultural diversity, remarkable skylines and breathtaking views make this the region one of the world's most popular destinations.

Stanford's campus is located less than an hour's drive from San Francisco to the north, just minutes from the Silicon Valley to the south and within easy reach of the breathtaking coastal cities that line the Pacific Ocean to the west.

San Francisco has been named by Conde Nast Traveler magazine as the No. 1 travel destination in the United State for 15 years in a row. Surrounded on three sides by the Pacific Ocean and San Francisco Bay, San Francisco is located on a hilly peninsula, occupying just 47 square miles of land. It is the center of the San Francisco Bay Area—the nation's fifth largest metropolitan area with a population of more than 7.0 million—and host to an estimated 16 million visitors each year.

South of the Stanford campus are the cities of San Jose and Santa Clara, the anchors to the Silicon Valley. Computer firms and software companies can be found throughout the region, which is considered the leader among the world's technology industry.

One of the world's greatest stretches of coastline is located within a short drive from Stanford. To the south is the Monterey Peninsula, which includes the picturesque towns of Monterey, Carmel and Santa Cruz. The Monterey Bay Aquarium, Cannery Row and 17-Mile Drive along Pebble Beach are musts for visitors.

Further north and east of Marin County is the home to the Napa Wine Country and within a few hours drive from the Bay Area is Lake Tahoe, home to some of the finest skiing in the country and the wonders of Yosemite National Park.

The Bay Area is also home to six major professional sports franchises, including the San Francisco 49ers, Oakland Raiders, San Francisco Giants, Oakland A's, San Jose Sharks and Golden State Warriors.

S MAPLES PAVILION HOME OF CHAMPIONS

Maples Pavilion offers one of the best environments for college volleyball. Built in 1969, Maples Pavilion has been host to several of the most memorable collegiate matches in the nation.

Maples Pavilion underwent a $26-million renovation that was completed in 2004-05, ushering in a new era of Stanford athletics that benefited both student-athletes and fans alike. Maples Pavilion serves as home for the men's and women's basketball teams, along with the women's volleyball program. The men's and women's gymnastics squads, as well as the men's volleyball team, also host some home competitions in the facility.

The renovation, financed entirely through private donations, has enhanced the college athletic experience for both student-athletes and fans. The facelift included a new covered 29,000 square foot concourse around the exterior of the seating area, state-of-the-art concession and restroom facilities with speaker systems, in addition to a new four-sided, state-of-the-art, center-hung scoreboard with video and replay capability.

The concourse is physically separated from the original building. The gap between the original building and the new concourse was designed for two reasons: to preserve the integrity of the architectural design and create an open garden feel that is present throughout buildings on the Stanford campus. The renovation also included the new playing court floor, upgraded locker rooms, student-athlete lounges, a state-of-the-art strength and conditioning room and training room, a media workroom, photography office and Courtside Room reserved for banquets.

The seating configuration features a lower bowl seating area that replaced the old floor and loge sections. The new lower seating level includes padded stadium seats that replaced the wood bleachers in the old floor setup. With the upgraded facilities and the improved seating area at floor level, the home team and fans experience the best playing atmosphere in the Pac-10.

The 7,223-seat structure serves the entire university as a multi-purpose facility. It was originally built at a cost of $3.3 million. It was named after its principal donor, Roscoe Maples, a member of the 1904 Stanford class.

The pavilion is utilized throughout the year by university staff and students for recreational and intramural purposes. In addition to intercollegiate competition, physical education classes are held in Maples Pavilion. The pavilion is also used for banquets and lectures.

Maples Pavilion has earned a reputation as one of the finest facilities in the country, routinely hosting NCAA Championship events. During the 2007-08 campaign, Maples Pavilion served as the host site for the following events: NCAA Women's Volleyball First and Second Rounds, NCAA Women's Volleyball Regionals, NCAA Men's Gymnastics Championship and NCAA Women's Basketball First and Second Rounds.

S STANFORD VOLLEYBALL ON THE AVP TOUR

Over the years, a number of former Stanford players have competed in AVP and other major beach events all around the world. This year, former players Kerri Walsh '00, Sara Dukes '04, Ashley Ivy '03 and Barbra Fontana '87 have all been playing on the 2008 AVP Crocs Tour that includes 19 competitions across the nation. At the midpoint of that tour, three of the top 10 ranked pairs included a former Stanford player.

Highlighting the group is Walsh, who is on her way to becoming the world's best female beach volleyball player after only playing professionally for seven years. Walsh is a two-time AVP MVP (2003, 2004) and has been part of the Tour's Team of the Year for the past five seasons. She was also named AVP Best Offensive Player in 2003. For the third straight season, she was chosen as the FIVB's Best Hitter, Best Blocker and Sports person in addition to collecting the 2007 Best Offensive and Most Outstanding Player awards. Currently, Walsh and partner Misty May-Treanor are the top-ranked women's beach team in the world.

S STANFORD VOLLEYBALL OLYMPIC TRADITION

With three former players competing in the recent Beijing Olympics, the Stanford program now boasts nine Olympians who have made a total of 14 appearances in the Summer Games. At least one former Cardinal player has appeared on each indoor U.S. Olympic roster since 1988, when Kim Oden '86 became Stanford's first volleyball Olympian.

In 1992, Oden returned to the Team USA roster and helped the squad to a bronze medal in Barcelona. Her sister, Bev Oden '93, joined Kristin Klein '92 on the 1996 team in Atlanta, while former Cardinal players Nancy Reno '88 and Barbra Fontana '87 both made appearances on the beach that year. Fontana and partner Linda Hanley took fourth, while Reno and partner Holly McPeak placed fifth. At the 2000 Sydney Games, Kerri Walsh '00 and Logan Tom '03 both made their inaugural Olympic appearances as members of the indoor team and helped the squad to a fourth place finish. Then just 19 and preparing for her sophomore year at Stanford, Tom became the youngest player to ever make a U.S. Olympic roster.

Walsh made the move to the beach for the 2004 Games in Athens and claimed the first U.S. gold medal in the history of the sport with partner Misty May-Treanor. Also in 2004, Tom returned to the indoor roster and another young player from The Farm, Ogonna Nnamani '05, followed in Tom's footsteps and became just the second collegian to make a U.S. Olympic women's volleyball team. This past August, Tom and Nnamani both made repeat appearances on the indoor squad, while Walsh, ranked No. 1 in the world, returned to the beach. Tom is now one of nine three-time Olympians in USA Volleyball history.

S ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE

Stanford women's volleyball players are challenged to excel both in the classroom and on the court. In the latest Academic Progress Rate (APR) scores, which measure eligibility, retention and graduation over a four-year period, all 35 teams at Stanford exceeded the NCAA's standards. The women's volleyball program was one of five Cardinal teams to earn a perfect 1000.

The program has time and again proven its commitment to academic excellence. Over the past five years, Cardinal women's volleyball players have been recognized with Pac-10 academic awards 31 times. In 2007, outside hitter Cynthia Barboza became the program's seventh Academic All-American, marking the third time in five years that a Stanford player has been recognized nationally for her dual efforts as both an AVCA All-American and an ESPN The Magazine Academic All-American.

In 2007-08, Stanford women's volleyball was among the 70 Division I teams recognized for academic excellence with the AVCA Team Academic Award. Stanford was one of two Pac-10 teams honored, and the only squad recognized that made the 2007 Final Four.

2008 SEASON OUTLOOK

With a core of veterans coming off back-to-back appearances in the NCAA title match and consecutive crowns in the nation's toughest conference, the 2008 Stanford women's volleyball team has lofty expectations for its upcoming season. Once again playing one of the nation's toughest schedules, the Cardinal will look to defend its Pac-10 title, maintain its place in the upper echelons of the AVCA poll and battle for its seventh NCAA Championship.

Over the years, Stanford has accumulated more NCAA titles, won more NCAA Tournament matches, made more Final Four appearances, and been in the national championship match more times than any other program in the nation. The Cardinal has produced some of the most elite players in the sport, including nine Olympians, and played in the NCAA title match five of the last seven years. This season, with one of its most talented squads yet, the Cardinal is more than capable of building on its championship tradition.

The keys to the team's success begin with its returning arsenal of All-American hitters – Foluke Akinradewo, Cynthia Barboza and Alix Klineman. Together, the trio boasts six career All-America honors, including four first-team selections, along with a National Player of the Year award and a National Freshman of the Year award. The threesome brings back a combined 12.22 kills per game while hitting at a clip well above .300. All three have spent the offseason training with some of the best players in the world as part of the U.S. National Training Team. All told, the trio's accomplishments amount to more returning firepower than the Cardinal program has ever seen.

The Cardinal also boasts 11 players who have been to a national championship match, including seven who have taken the team to the coveted match twice. Six members of the starting rotation return, including all four primary passers. Between the 11 veterans, the 2008 Cardinal features 12 years in the starting lineup and more than 3,500 kills. The veterans have already contributed to 88 Cardinal wins, two conference titles and a pair of Final Four appearances. Ten members of the Stanford roster have postseason court experience. To top it all off, that stock of talent is under the guidance of reigning Pac-10 Coach of the Year John Dunning, one of the winningest coaches in NCAA history. The combination is more than promising.

"Coming off of a very successful year in 2007, I think our team is eager to start at the level we finished at last December," says Dunning. "We have a solid base of returning players who are hungry to get back on the court, as well as some newcomers who are eager to make an impact at the collegiate level. We have three players who have spent the last few months with the national team, and I think the experience they bring back from playing at the highest level of volleyball will raise the bar for our entire team. With this group's strong team chemistry and valuable experience playing in competitive situations, I am confident that we have the potential to be very successful this season."

Once again, Dunning has challenged the Cardinal with another high-caliber series of opponents. Stanford will play 12 regular-season matches against teams that finished 2007 in the AVCA top-10, 14 against those who finished in the top-25 and 15 against teams coming off NCAA trips. The Cardinal will also take on four of the five teams it ousted from last year's NCAA Tournament, and look to defend consecutive titles in a league that has claimed five of the past seven national championships.

Stanford opens the season in late August at the prestigious AVCA Showcase in Omaha, Neb., which historically features four of the top national title contenders. This year, the tournament (Aug. 29-31) will be held in a conference challenge format, with the Pac-10's Stanford and USC taking on Big 12 representatives Nebraska and Texas. The Cardinal will take on the Huskers in the season opener for both teams at the Qwest Center on Aug. 29, then battles the talented Longhorns on Aug. 31.

"We are thrilled to be opening our season in Omaha, the home of the 2008 national championship, playing Nebraska and Texas, two of the top teams in the country," says Dunning. "From that point on we make three more stops on the road, playing several very good teams and play in a very solid tournament on our own court. This will be another very challenging preseason for us in preparation for what might be the best Pac 10 schedule we have ever played."

Stanford continues its season-opening road trip in Orlando, Fla. with a midweek contest against Central Florida on Sept. 2. The team finishes the trip at the Saint Louis Invitational in St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 5-6.

On Sept. 11, the Cardinal will open the home season against New Mexico State as part of the annual Stanford Invitational. Stanford will meet UC Santa Barbara on the second day of the event (Sept. 12) and will wrap it up against Santa Clara in a rematch of the 2007 NCAA First Round (Sept. 13).

2008 Season Preview

2008 STANFORD WOMEN'S VOLLEYBALL

Stanford closes out the non-conference schedule Sept. 19-20 at the Cal Poly Invitational. The weekend will be highlighted by a Sept. 20 showdown with the No. 11 Mustangs, a team that the Cardinal eliminated in an NCAA Regional Semifinal last December.

The Pac-10 season begins on Friday, Sept. 26, when Stanford takes on Oregon State in Maples Pavilion. The Cardinal will be defending its back-to-back conference championships in the nation's toughest conference. Last year, the Pac-10 sent six teams to the NCAA Tournament, had all six finish the year in the top-10 and sent three squads to the Final Four. Stanford will play key match ups against national semifinalists California and USC in Maples Pavilion on Oct. 19 and Nov. 21, respectively. Regional finalist UCLA will visit The Farm on Saturday, Nov. 22, while 2007 conference runner-up Washington will play at Stanford on Halloween night, Oct. 31.

The NCAA Tournament begins with opening rounds, Dec. 4-7. The Final Four is set for Dec. 18-20 at the Qwest Center in Omaha, Neb.

Here's a look at the 2008 Cardinal by position:

Outside Hitters

Stanford returns two of its strongest weapons on outside hitters Cynthia Barboza and Alix Klineman, who both earned All-America honors last season. Barboza and Klineman have spent the offseason training with the U.S. National Team, and return as two of the most well-respected players in the collegiate game.

Barboza has been a first-team All-American the past two seasons, and is coming off of a season in which she recorded 20 double-doubles and averaged 3.99 kills per game. A dangerous server, consistent passer and powerful hitter, Barboza's versatility, combined with her experience competing against the best players in the world, make her one of the most complete players at the collegiate level.

Klineman had a tremendous freshman season, in which she garnered Volleyball Magazine National Freshman of the Year accolades. The team leader in kills with 4.12 per game as a rookie, Klineman will be looked upon to reach even greater heights with a year of collegiate experience and a spring spent training at the highest level under her belt.

Stanford also returns its starter at the opposite position – senior Erin Waller. Waller has seen significant time on the court over the last three years, gaining valuable experience in competitive situations. She brings a proven ability to hit and block consistently, and has time and again stepped up for the Cardinal in key matches. This season, Waller will be looked upon to provide veteran leadership and a reliable attack.

Another senior, Alex Fisher continues to build her game after battling back from injuries that sidelined her at the start of her career.

Fisher has been working hard in the offseason, and will battle for playing time as a hitter on both the right and left side.

Sophomore Cassidy Lichtman, a likely candidate to set and play defense this year, will be another hitter in the Cardinal's arsenal with a proven ability to swing from the outside.

Setters

With the departure of three-time All-American setter Bryn Kehoe, Stanford will undeniably have a hole to fill in one of the most crucial positions on the court. Junior Joanna Evans and sophomore Cassidy Lichtman will vie for the starting role.

Evans brings the most setting experience of anyone on the squad, contributing valuable understanding of the game and familiarity with the Stanford hitters. Her dedication in the offseason and leadership as an upperclassman make her a prime candidate to fill the role as Stanford's setter this season.

Lichtman has also worked extremely hard in the offseason to develop her skills as a setter, and will battle for the starting job. Lichtman gained key championship court experience as a defensive specialist last fall, and offers versatility as a strong hitter, a consistent server and a reliable passer.

Additionally, freshman Katherine Sebastian, a standout from Harvard-Westlake School in Southern California, will compete for time at the setter position.

Middle Blockers

As the primary force in the middle, Stanford returns the nation's best collegiate player from 2007 – AVCA National Player of the Year Foluke Akinradewo. The Plantation, Fla. native led the nation in hitting percentage last season with a .499 clip that ranked second-best in NCAA history. Akinradewo spent the offseason training with the U.S. National Team, building her game in competition against some of the best players in the world. In her much-anticipated return to the collegiate game, Akinradewo will look to continue to dominate with her powerful swing and commanding blocking ability.

Opposite Akinradewo, Stanford will look to fill a vacancy left by four-year starter Franci Girard. Head Coach John Dunning has no shortage of options, however, with three talented players battling for the starting spot.

Junior Janet Okogbaa, one of the most highly-touted recruits in her class, is eager to step in and take on a larger role for the Cardinal as an upperclassman this year. An especially capable blocker, Okogbaa has worked hard in the offseason to take her game to the next level both offensively and defensively.

Redshirt freshman Stephanie Browne comes back from a year spent gaining valuable practice experience and is ready to make an immediate impact on the court. Browne, one of the top 20 recruits in her class, brings a strong swing and notable blocking ability that will be an asset at the net for the Cardinal.

In addition, freshman Jessica Walker, the nation's No. 10 recruit by Prep Volleyball, will be joining the squad this year. The 6-1 middle blocker from Houston, Texas brings a great deal of athleticism and will look to earn a spot in the lineup early on.

Liberos/Defensive Specialists

Stanford returns all of its passing from the 2007 squad that recorded more digs than any team in school history. Anchoring that group of talented defensive players are veterans Gabi Ailes and Jessica Fishburn, two players who have independently made their marks in the Stanford record books over the past two years.

As a freshman last season, Ailes stepped into the collegiate game and immediately established herself as one of the most consistent defensive players in the Pac-10. She won the starting libero spot early in the year, and proceeded to shatter two school dig records before the season was complete. Back on the court for her second year, Ailes will look to top the program-best 533 digs she accumulated last season and use her energy and enthusiasm to be a defensive leader for the Cardinal.

Over the course of the past three seasons, Fishburn has seen significant time on the court and proven her ability to be a dependable passer for Stanford. The senior's court experience in competitive situations, as well as her intensity and work ethic, will make her a valuable asset to the Cardinal in 2008.

Sophomore Cassidy Lichtman, a versatile player who earned a spot in the starting rotation as defensive specialist last season, brings further depth to the Cardinal defensive options. Her steady passing and reliable serve will undoubtedly prove important this season.

Newcomers Katherine Knox and Katherine Sebastian will further bolster the Cardinal defense this year, both coming to The Farm as capable defensive players with an eagerness to make an impact at the collegiate level.

The Best of the Best

Stanford claimed its league record 11th Pac-10 title in 2007, adding to its history of success in the nation's toughest volleyball conference. Stanford has been either the conference champion or runner-up in 21 of the 22 seasons since the Pac-10 added women's volleyball in 1986. The Cardinal also holds the league's best all-time winning percentage in conference play (.874), more than 100 percentage points above its closest rival.

John Dunning is no stranger to success. Few in the history of the sport can compete with the accomplishments of the Cardinal's decorated head coach. In 2008, Dunning, the reigning Pac-10 Coach of the Year, enters his eighth season at the helm of the Cardinal. In his time on The Farm, he has helped Stanford further strengthen its hold as one of the premier collegiate volleyball programs in the United States.

Dunning has been in the spotlight of NCAA volleyball since he began his coaching career 23 years ago at Pacific. Since then, he has collected four national titles, matching former Cardinal coach Don Shaw for the most in NCAA history. Dunning also ranks among the top five coaches all-time with an .827 career winning percentage, and among the top ten active coaches with 645 career wins. Entering the 2008 season, Dunning boasts a 645-135 career record, with a 208-33 (.863) mark at Stanford. In his seven years on The Farm, Dunning has had nine athletes earn 20 All-America honors and has coached three AVCA National Players of the Year. His teams have also posted a 63-19 (.768) record in the NCAA Tournament.

At Stanford

Dunning took the reins of the Cardinal program in July 2001 and, in his very first year, coached Stanford to an unprecedented fifth NCAA Championship and ninth Pac-10 Conference title. The Cardinal's 33-2 overall mark tied the school record for most wins in a single season on The Farm. Dunning also became the first Division I head coach to win a national championship in his first season at two different schools (Pacific and Stanford). For his efforts, he was honored as the Pac-10 Coach of the Year as well as the AVCA National Coach of the Year. Dunning had two athletes named AVCA All-Americans, including National Player of the Year Logan Tom. Three players garnered first-team All-Pac-10 honors while one, Ogonna Nnamani, was tabbed Conference Freshman of the Year as well as ASICS/Volleyball Magazine National Freshman of the Year.

In 2002, Stanford finished second nationally, battling its way to the NCAA title match. That year, Dunning led the Cardinal to a 32-5 record and another NCAA Final Four appearance. The team finished as the NCAA runner-up, while three players were tabbed AVCA All-Americans and Logan Tom repeated as the AVCA National Player of the Year. Outside hitter Ogonna Nnamani was also honored as an Academic All-American.

In 2003, Dunning led the Cardinal to a 25-7 overall record and its 23rd consecutive appearance in the NCAA tournament. Ogonna Nnamani was honored as an AVCA first-team All-American while teammate Jennifer Harvey was a second-team selection. Kristin Richards was tabbed Pac-10 Freshman of the Year as well as Volleyball Magazine's National Freshman of the Year.

In 2004, Stanford reached the title match of the NCAA Tournament for the third time in four years, and once again, captured the NCAA crown with a three-game sweep of Minnesota. Dunning coached the Cardinal to a 30-6 overall record and the sixth national title in school history. Ogonna Nnamani, Stanford's top player, gained AVCA All-America honors for a fourth-straight season. In addition, Nnamani was named the 2005 Collegiate Woman Athlete of the Year (Honda-Broderick Cup), a 2005 NCAA Today's Top Eight Award recipient, the Pac-10 Player of the Year and received an NCAA Postgraduate Scholarship. Kristin Richards was named a Volleyball Magazine first-team All-American, and an all-conference first team selection. Franci Girard, Katie Goldhahn, Leah Hall, Jen Huckle, Bryn Kehoe, Courtney Schultz and Lizzie Suiter also gained numerous postseason athletic and academic honors.

In 2005, Dunning led Stanford to a 26-6 record and a 25th consecutive NCAA Tournament appearance. He was also a recipient of the USA Volleyball All-Time Great Coach Award, presented each year by USA Volleyball, the national governing body of the sport, to recognize the all-time great coaches of volleyball.

After a one-year absence, Dunning led Stanford back to the NCAA title match in 2006. Under Dunning's guidance, Stanford posted a 30-4 record, claimed its first outright Pac-10 title since 2001 and made an NCAA Tournament run that culminated in its 16th trip to the NCAA Final Four. On October 20, 2006, Dunning earned his 600th win as a head coach against Oregon. A school-record four players earned AVCA All-America honors.

In 2007, Dunning continued to build on the tradition of success. Stanford repeated as the Pac-10 Champion for the first time in Dunning's tenure and, for his efforts, he was named the Pac-10 Coach of the Year. Stanford went 32-3 on its way to a 17th NCAA Final Four appearance, and reached the NCAA Championship match for the third time in four years. The Cardinal swept the postseason Pac-10 awards for the first time since 2001, with Alix Klineman earning conference freshman of the year honors, Foluke Akinradewo being named Pac-10 Player of the Year and Dunning earning the distinction as the conference's top coach. For the second consecutive year, a school-record four Stanford players earned AVCA All-America honors. Klineman was named the Volleyball Magazine National Freshman of the Year, while Akinradewo was recognized as the AVCA National Player of the Year.

At Pacific

Prior to coming to Stanford, Dunning spent 16 seasons as the head coach at Pacific. In his tenure in Stockton, he compiled an impressive 437-102 (.811) record, was named Big West Coach of the Year four times and led the Tigers to two NCAA Championships, an NCAA runner-up finish, five Big West Conference titles and 16 consecutive NCAA postseason tournament bids. An outstanding student and teacher of the game of volleyball, 16 of his Tiger athletes were recognized on the national stage with a total of 29 All-American awards. In 2007, Dunning was inducted into the University of the Pacific Hall of Fame.

In 1985, Dunning stepped onto the Pacific campus and guided the team to a national title in his first year as a collegiate head coach and was named the Volleyball Monthly National Coach of the Year. The next year, 1986, he helped the squad repeat its landmark. Dunning's pair of titles with the volleyball program remain the only two national championships in any sport in Pacific's history.

Over his 16 seasons, Dunning led his teams to a combined 43-15 record in postseason action, an unmatched 10-1 record in Big West Conference Tournament play and a stellar 33-14 mark in the NCAA Tournament. Of the 16 squads coached by Dunning, 14 reached NCAA Regionals, advancing to the regional championship match seven times. Four of Dunning's squads reached the NCAA Final Four, including the two national championship teams, the 1990 national runner-up team and his 1999 squad that went 32-3.

In 2000, his final year with the program, Dunning earned Big West Coach of the Year honors for a second straight season, as the Tigers won a second-consecutive Big West title. His squad posted a 28-4 overall record, reached the regional semifinal and had two players earn All-American status.

Other Accomplishments

Prior to beginning his career at the collegiate level, Dunning has made a name for himself as one of the country's top prep and junior club coaches. The founder of the Bay Club, a USAV Junior Club, he also spent nine successful years as the head coach at Sunnyvale's Fremont High School.

His teams at Fremont High were among the top five in the state each of his last six years, also capturing eight league titles, six sectional crowns and one state championship. After being selected as the California Coaches Association Prep Coach of the Year in 1980, Dunning was a finalist for National High School Coach of the Year in 1984. His impressive 283-32 (.898) high school record makes him one of the most successful prep coaches in California history.

John Dunning is the only Division I women's volleyball coach to win an NCAA Championship as a first-year head coach at two different schools. In 1985 at Pacific, he became the first first-year coach in NCAA history to win a national title, and in 2001 he repeated the feat as a first-year head coach at Stanford.

In 1980, he founded the Bay Club and built it into one of the country's most successful and well-managed junior programs in just four years. His team won the national championship in 1984.

With his accomplishments at the junior club and high school level, combined with his success in collegiate volleyball, Dunning is one of only two coaches to have captured national titles on three different levels. He led squads to national championships on the high school, club and collegiate ranks.

Dunning has also been considered one of the top coaches on a national level, as he was selected to coach the north squad at the 1995 U.S. Olympic Festival where he led the team to a gold medal.

From 1993 to 1994, he served as president of the American Volleyball Coaches Association. He served the two previous years as the NCAA Division I representative to the AVCA Board of Directors, and has been a member of the AVCA Division I All-America Selection Committee many times. Dunning also served as interim athletic director at Pacific in 1999-2000. In May 2008, he was named to the USA Volleyball Board of Directors.

Personal

Dunning earned his bachelor of arts degree in mathematics and economics from San Diego State in 1973. He coached volleyball and taught mathematics at a high school level in the Bay Area from 1973 to 1984. John and his wife Julie have two children, Lauren and Lisa (husband Matt Dobbins), and a granddaughter, McKenzie.

DUNNING BY THE NUMBERS

4 NCAA Championships – Dunning is tied with former Stanford head coach Don Shaw for the most NCAA titles of any Division I head coach. He is one of two NCAA coaches to have won a title at two different schools.

8 NCAA Championship Matches – Dunning and Shaw are the only two coaches in NCAA women's volleyball history to have coached in eight national championship matches.

9 NCAA Final Four Appearances – Dunning has taken nine of his teams to the Final Four, including five of the seven teams he has coached at Stanford.

20 NCAA Regional Appearances – Dunning's teams have advanced to an NCAA Regional nine of the last 10 seasons, and 20 times since 1985.

23 Consecutive NCAA Tournament Appearances – Dunning has taken his team to the NCAA Tournament in each one of his 23 seasons as a head coach.

63 NCAA Tournament Wins – Dunning boasts a 63-19 record in the NCAA Tournament, having won more than 75 percent of the postseason matches he has coached.

8 Conference Championships – Dunning has captured eight conference titles, including three in his seven seasons in the Pac-10 Conference. Dunning is the winningest active coach in the Pac-10 in terms of not only career winning percentage, but winning percentage in Pac-10 matches.

10 30-Win Seasons – Dunning's teams have posted 30 or more wins 10 different times, including each of the last two seasons. In 2001, his Cardinal squad's 33-win season matched a school record for wins.

645 Career Wins – Dunning recorded his 600th career victory on Oct. 20, 2006. He is one of 15 active Division I coaches to have hit the milestone, and stands 10th among active coaches in terms of career victories. Dunning needs five wins in 2008 to become the 17th coach ever to reach 650 wins.

49 All-Americans – Dunning has coached 25 All-Americans to 49 total All-America awards in his 23 seasons as a head coach.

4 AVCA National Players of the Year – Since coming to The Farm in 2001, Dunning has produced four of the last seven AVCA National Players of the Year.

also been the business manager for the U.S. Women's National Team.

From 1990-96, Corlett founded and coached the Griffin Volleyball Club and immediately established it as one of the nation's top programs. Her 1994 18-and-under team took third place at the Junior Olympics and featured former Stanford great Lisa Sharpley, as well as several other top collegiate players. In recognition, USA Volleyball named Corlett the Outstanding Female Junior Olympic Coach for 1994. Corlett also helped start the Vision Volleyball Club and Club Yahoo.

Corlett received a bachelor's degree in mathematics from UCLA in 1981. At UCLA, Corlett played three varsity sports and was named the All-University Athlete of the Year in 1979. She was the national badminton champion in 1977 and won the Broderick Award for that sport. She was a three-time All-American in volleyball and played on the Bruins' national championship women's basketball team. She led her USVBA team to national championships in both 1978 and 1979, played for the USA in the 1979 University Games in Mexico City and played for the U.S. National Team in 1982 and 1983. In 1997, she was selected as one of the top 25 players in UCLA women's volleyball history. In 1999, Corlett was inducted into the UCLA Athletics Hall of Fame for volleyball, basketball and badminton. Her class included track and field great, Gail Devers, and football quarterback, Troy Aikman. In 2005, Corlett was named to the Cal-Hi Sports Top 100 Female Athletes list.

Corlett's grandfather (Bruce Alexander Russell) was the editorial cartoonist for the Los Angeles Times for 33 years, and won the Pulitzer Prize for editorial cartoons in 1946.

A former U.S. National Team player and one of the nation's most respected assistants, Denise Corlett has spent 19 years on The Farm as an interim head coach, an associate head coach and an assistant coach. In 2008, she begins her 13th year in the associate head coach role.

"Denise is a remarkable multi-tasker," said head coach John Dunning. "She does an exceptional job recruiting, which is one aspect of her job that she truly loves. Denise spends a lot of time traveling to see recruits play, as well as getting to know their coaches and families. She knows more about Stanford than just about anyone."

The Cardinal is 538-87 (.861) during her association with the program, having won six NCAA championships and 10 Pac-10 titles. The six national titles include Stanford's back-to-back titles in 1996 and 1997, as well as six consecutive conference titles from 1994-1999.

Following the Cardinal's national title win in 1996, Corlett was promoted to associate head coach.

Corlett has also made a name for herself at the national level. She spent the summer of 1993 serving as an assistant coach for the silver medal U.S. team

Prior to coming to The Farm, Corlett served as an assistant at San Jose State from 1987-1988. During that time, the Spartans went 42-24 and reached the NCAA Tournament twice. Prior to her tenure at San Jose State, Corlett spent five years assisting at UCLA, her alma mater. Corlett served as a graduate assistant for two years and a volunteer assistant for three years, helping the Bruins to the 1985 Final Four. She has

Assistant Coach

Jason Mansfield

Jason Mansfield begins his fifth year as a full-time assistant coach for the Cardinal and his seventh with the Stanford program. Mansfield shares in all of the program's coaching responsibilities.

Mansfield has been instrumental in helping the Cardinal maintain a place among the powerhouses of collegiate volleyball. In his six years with the program, Stanford has advanced to the NCAA Final Four on four occasions, been in the national title match four times and won a national championship.

During the 2002 and 2003 seasons, Mansfield served as a volunteer coach, helping Stanford reach the NCAA title match in his first year on The Farm. In 2004, Mansfield took on full-time responsibilities and helped the Cardinal to its sixth NCAA Championship. In his four years as a full-time assistant, Mansfield has aided the team in winning two Pac-10 titles (2006 and 2007), making three appearances in the NCAA Final Four (2004, 2006 and 2007) and reaching the national championship match three times (2004, 2006 and 2007). He has coached 18 All-Americans and three AVCA National Players of the Year.

Mansfield brings 13 years of coaching experience to The Farm, most recently having worked with Vision Volleyball Club as the 18-1's head coach (2000-2008). Mansfield's club teams have finished fifth or better seven times at the Junior Olympics, winning a gold medal (1997), a silver medal (2004) and a bronze medal (2008). He has coached 15 Junior Olympic All-Americans. Mansfield has also coached at Homestead High School (Boys / 6 yrs.), Los Altos High School (Girls / 5 yrs.), Foothill Junior College (Women / 3 yrs.) and Cupertino Junior High (Boys / 2 yrs.).

Mansfield earned his business management degree at Ashworth University in 2007.

Volunteer Assistant Coach

Chris Muscat

Chris Muscat returns to the Cardinal for his second season as a volunteer assistant coach this fall.

Last year, Muscat helped the Stanford on its run to the NCAA title match. This year, he will be a full-time addition to the Stanford staff and looks to help the Cardinal in its quest for another Final Four berth.

At Stanford, he assists in practice and focuses his efforts on individual skill development and scouting. Muscat will also be in charge of video editing and analysis this season.

A Bay Area native, Muscat played volleyball at UCLA and graduated in 2001. He has coached junior girls for both Main Beach Volleyball Club and Vision Volleyball Club. Before making the transition to girls, Chris served as the head coach for the 18's team for a local junior boys club, Bay to Bay Volleyball Club.

Chris and his wife, Chrissy, are expecting a daughter this season.

Director of Volleyball Operations

Cobey Shoji

Cobey Shoji is entering her fifth season as the Director of Volleyball Operations. Her responsibilities include marketing and promotions, external relations, accounting and travel.

Shoji came to Stanford from the University of North Carolina (Chapel Hill) where she received her Master's degree in athletic administration in 2004. She also taught undergraduate physical education classes, worked as a special events coordinator in development for the Rams Club and in athletic event management while at North Carolina.

Shoji, who hails from Honolulu, Hawai'i, received her bachelor's degree in sports management and communications from the University of Michigan in 2001. She played volleyball at UNLV and Michigan as a defensive specialist/setter.

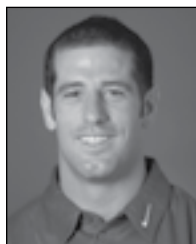

Shoji has coached for Rebel Volleyball Club in Las Vegas, Punahou School in Honolulu, Triangle Volleyball Club in Durham, NC and currently coaches for Vision Volleyball Club. She is the daughter of longtime Hawai'i women's volleyball Head Coach Dave Shoji. Her brothers, Kawika and Erik, are members of the Cardinal men's volleyball team.

2007 YEAR IN REVIEW

Upholding the Tradition

2007 Stanford Volleyball Season in Review

The Cardinal women's volleyball team kept its place in the national spotlight in 2007, maintaining a long tradition of wins, conference titles, Final Four appearances, national championship matches and record-breaking performances.

The Cardinal began the year with its first undefeated non-conference season in more than a decade, continued by defending its Pac-10 title in the best conference in the nation, finished with a tough battle through the NCAA Tournament, and, for the third time in the last four years, was one of two teams left standing on the final day of the season.

The squad ended the year with a No. 2 national ranking, a 32-3 record, its 14th conference title and an NCAA Final Four appearance, while playing the toughest schedule in the nation.

The Cardinal began the year with a non-conference season to remember. The squad won all three of its early tournaments, went a perfect 11-0, dropped just four games and topped seven ranked opponents. The team capped its successful opening chapter with a thrilling five-game victory over eventual national champion Penn State to claim the Yale Classic title and headed into one of the toughest conference schedules in the country.

The Cardinal won its first six conference matches, including sweeps of then-No. 4 and then-No. 5 USC and UCLA, before finally dropping a match to Washington. Stanford rebounded, however, and lost just one more conference match from there on out. The Cardinal bested the Huskies on their home floor for the first time since 2002, snapping the team's 39-match home win streak, then won a five-game thriller over California on Senior Night to clinch a second-straight Pac-10 title. Head Coach John Dunning earned his 200th win with the Stanford program on Nov. 9.

Stanford swept the conference awards for the first time since 2001, with Dunning voted Coach of the Year, outside hitter Alix Klineman voted Freshman of the Year and middle blocker Foluke Akinradewo voted Player of the Year. Four players were named to the All-Pac-10 Team, with Klineman the only newcomer to make the squad.

Stanford entered the NCAA Tournament as the overall No. 1 seed for the first time since the field was expanded to 64 teams in 1998 and dominated its first three matches at Maples Pavilion. On the shoulders of senior setter Bryn Kehoe's 76 assists, Klineman's 24 kills and 23 digs and junior opposite hitter Erin Waller's 19 kills, the Cardinal earned a spot in its 17th Final Four with a four-game victory over UCLA in the Regional Final.

Akinradewo recorded a career-high 26 kills in the national semifinal match, lifting Stanford to a thrilling five-game victory over USC. In the national final, the Cardinal battled back from its first 0-2 deficit of the year, and nearly pulled off the greatest comeback in NCAA Championship history, but fell short in the fifth game to take second place for the second consecutive year.

Despite the loss, the Cardinal had much to be proud of in 2007. The squad posted its 14th 30+ win season, won its 14th conference championship, advanced to its 27th NCAA Tournament, made its record 17th Final Four appearance and advanced to its unprecedented 13th National Championship match.

Stanford bested 18 ranked opponents, outlit 33 of the 35 teams it faced and won 21 matches by 3-0 margins. The Cardinal posted the best hitting percentage in the Pac-10 (.316), led the conference in both kills (17.46 kpg) and assists (16.21 apg), and ranked in the nation's top-five in all three categories. Four players - Akinradewo, Klineman, Kehoe and Cynthia Barboza - were named All-Americans, matching the highest total in program history, and, for the 11th time, Stanford produced the National Player of the Year. Kehoe, Akinradewo and Barboza were all named to the AVCA All-America First Team, the first time in school history that the Cardinal boasted three first-team All-Americans.

Akinradewo, the recipient of the National Player of the Year award, posted the second-best hitting percentage in NCAA history (.499), a mark which led the nation and shattered both the Pac-10 and program records by more than 50 points. The junior middle blocker was also one of the conference's top players in kills (4.11 kpg), blocks (1.21 bpg) and points (4.94 ppg), and was named Pac-10 Player of the Year for her efforts.

Kehoe led the nation in assists in 2007, with a 14.40 apg mark. She wrapped up an incredible career on The Farm in her third NCAA Championship match, but not before etching her name throughout the Stanford, Pac-10 and NCAA record books. The setter broke the program's career assist record on Oct. 12, and finished nearly 1,000 assists above the previous mark with 5,956. The total was the third-best in Pac-10 history and one of the top-25 in NCAA history, while her 13.32 career assist per game mark was among the NCAA's all-time top-10. Kehoe shattered her own single-season assist record on Dec. 13, and finished with a program-best 1,742 assists for the year, one of the top three marks in Pac-10 history and one of the top-20 all-time in the NCAA. A three-time All-American, Kehoe finished her career owning four of the top-10 single-match assist performances in program history as well as a place among the program's all-time top-10 in both service aces (5th, 129) and digs (7th, 1,220).

Barboza finished the year with a career-best 20 double-doubles, was one of the team's top hitters with 3.99 kpg, earned MVP honors at two of the team's three preseason tournaments and was named the program's first Academic All-American since 2004. She nabbed first-team All-Pac-10, All-Region and All-America honors, and, along with Akinradewo, joined Stanford's elite 1,000-kill club as just a junior.

Stanford's top-ranked recruiting class lived up to its reputation, as three freshmen moved into the starting lineup, and two proved to be the team's best in their respective specialties. Klineman led the team in kills (4.12 kpg) in her rookie season, earned Pac-10 Player of the Week honors at her first opportunity, was a second-team All-American, was the only freshman named to the All-Region and All-Pac-10 Teams, earned Pac-10 Freshman of the Year and the Pacific Region Freshman of the Year honors and was named to the NCAA Final Four All-Tournament Team. Gabi Ailes, the squad's libero, earned All-Pac-10 Freshman Honorable Mention, shattered the program's single-match dig record on Oct. 27 and surpassed the program's single-season dig record in the national semifinal.

Two other players recorded the best seasons of their careers, as Waller stepped up late in the year to average a career-best 2.37 kpg, and senior middle blocker Franci Girard had the best hitting year of her career with one of the top hitting percentages in the Pac-10 (.317) and a career-best 2.19 kpg.

In the end, the 2007 Cardinal more than upheld the impressive tradition of a program that boasts more NCAA titles, more NCAA Tournament wins, more Final Four appearances, more national championship matches and more Pac-10 titles than any program in the nation.

Stanford 2007 GRADUATED SENIORS

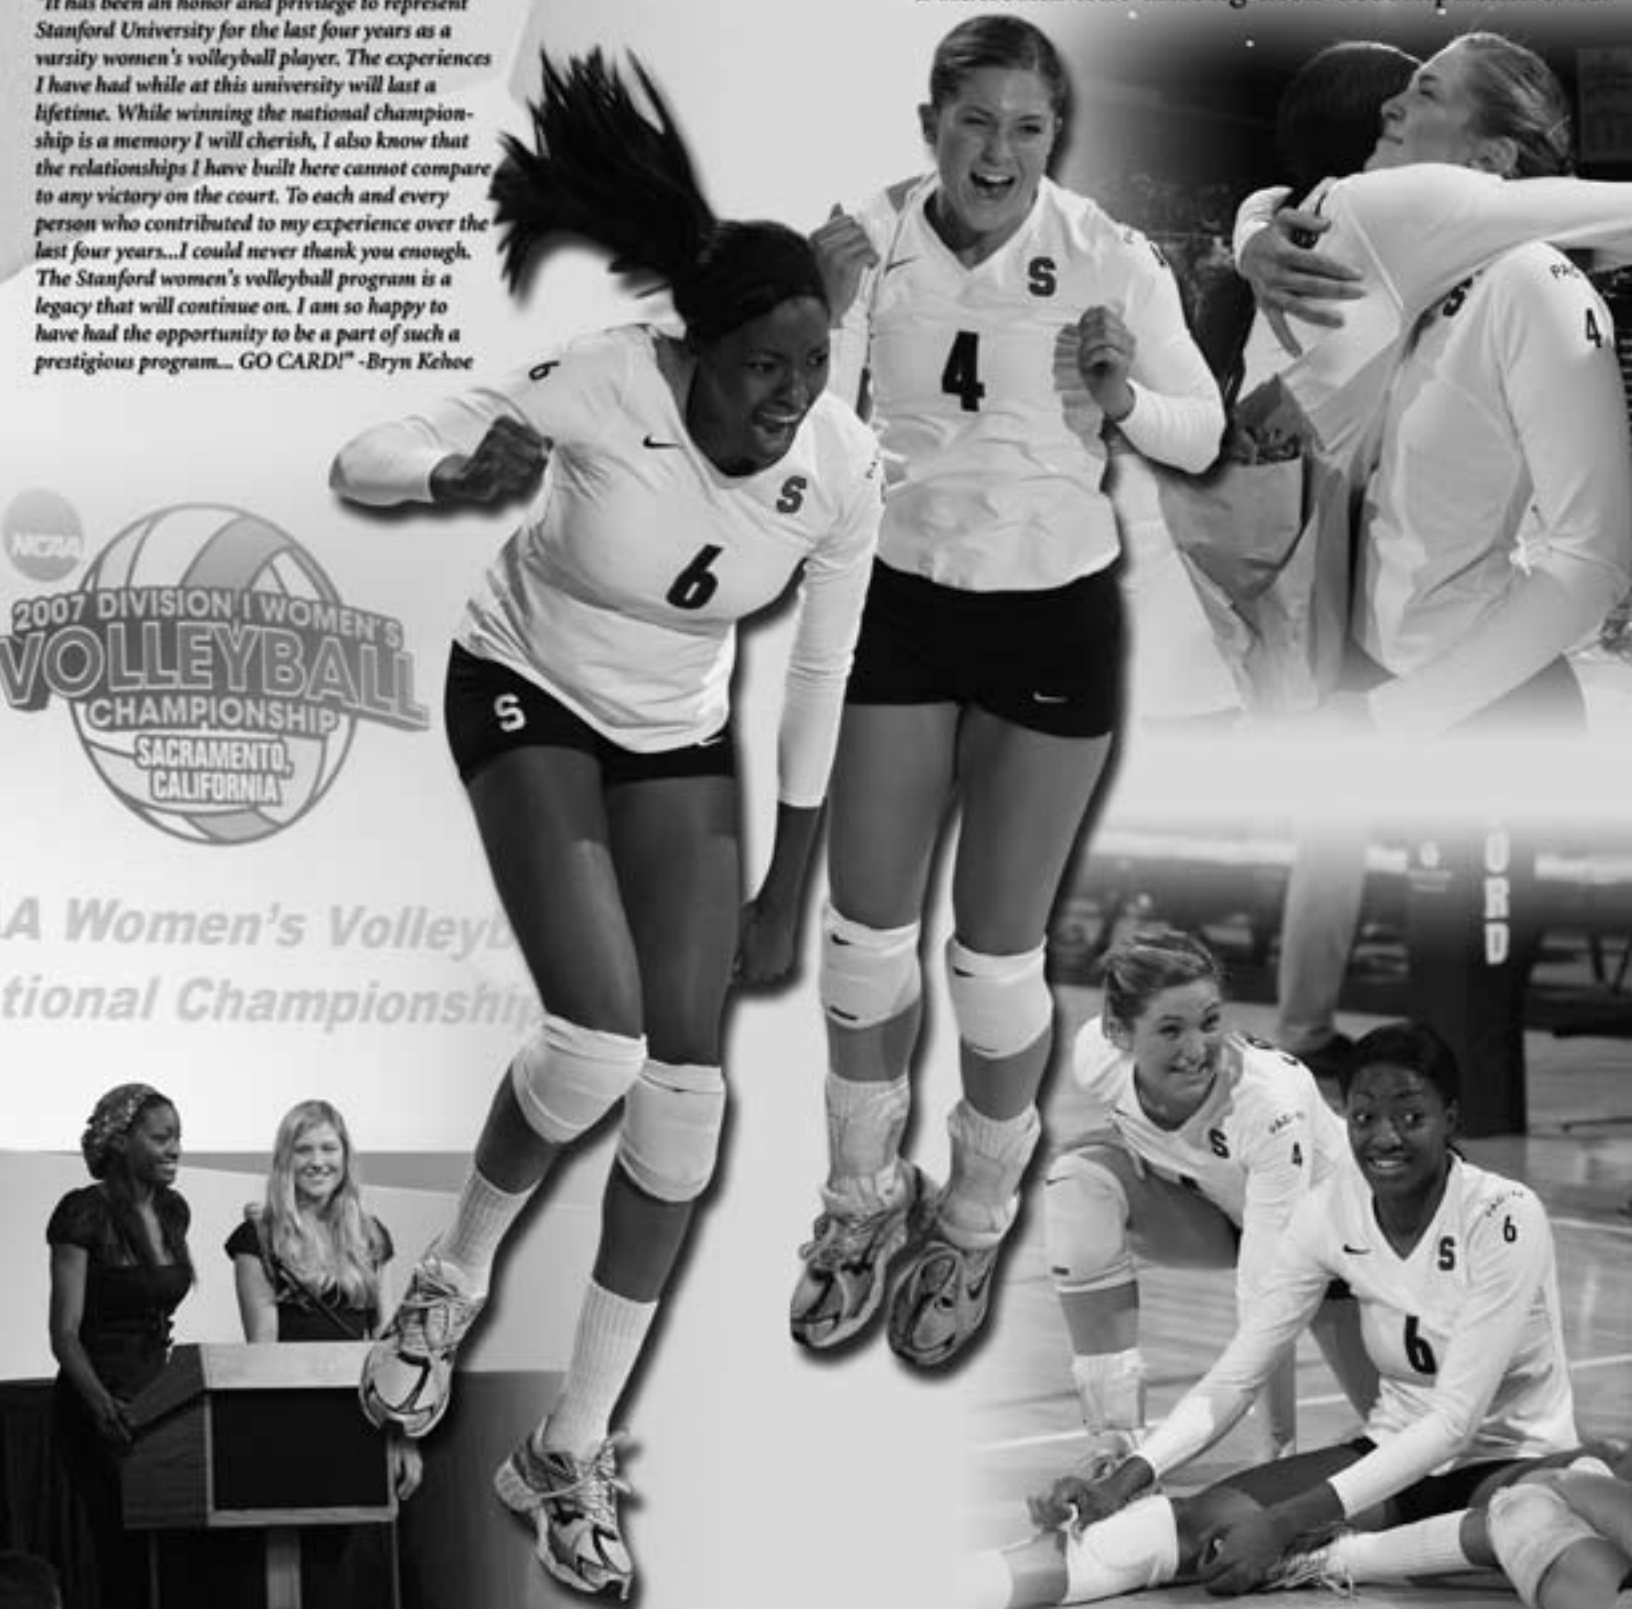

"When I was committing to Stanford, I knew that I was committing to a university that pushed its student-athletes to strive for excellence both on the court and in the classroom. I was able to make it through successfully because of all of the support that I received from my coaches, professors and advisors. I loved Stanford because there was something interesting about everyone I encountered. People dream big and then go out and make those dreams a reality and it's contagious, motivating me to excel on and off the court. I never thought I would be playing for a national championship team. It took a lot of hard work and sacrifice, but dreams actually do come true." -Franci Girard

"It has been an honor and privilege to represent Stanford University for the last four years as a varsity women's volleyball player. The experiences I have had while at this university will last a lifetime. While winning the national championship is a memory I will cherish, I also know that the relationships I have built here cannot compare to any victory on the court. To each and every person who contributed to my experience over the last four years...I could never thank you enough. The Stanford women's volleyball program is a legacy that will continue on. I am so happy to have had the opportunity to be a part of such a prestigious program... GO CARD!" -Bryn Kehoe

The Cardinal volleyball program said goodbye to two outstanding seniors at the end of the 2007 season. Both four-year starters, Bryn Kehoe and Franci Girard finished their careers in Sacramento on Dec. 15, 2007, with three Final Four appearances, three national championship matches, two Pac-10 Championships, a 118-19 record and a national title among their accomplishments.

Buck/Cardinal Club

In June of 1934, the “Tiny Buck of the Month Club” was formed to raise the necessary funds from Stanford alumni and friends to pay the tuition costs for capable, worthy and needy student-athletes. As the Club’s name implied, membership dues were one dollar per month and the word “tiny” was added to emphasize the modest amount and to honor head football coach, Claude “Tiny” Thornhill. The Club later shortened its name to the “Stanford Buck Club” and revised its initial membership dues requirement.

Until the mid-1970’s, there were no athletic scholarships for women, nor was there any fundraising organization devoted to this purpose. To accomplish the task of raising scholarship funds for women, the Cardinal Club was formed in 1977-78.

Under the guidance of the Buck and Cardinal Club leadership, a merged Buck/Cardinal Club was formed in 1987 to raise funds for both men’s and women’s athletic scholarships. The new volunteer organization was built on the fine Buck and Cardinal Club traditions that served both organizations well.

In 2007, the Stanford Athletic Department provided full operating budgets to all 35 varsity sports. These budgets include all of the components necessary for our programs to compete at the Division I level. Because of this, none of our varsity sports will be required to fundraise for their basic operating budgets effective fiscal year 2008 (September 1, 2007).

These new budgets will be funded in large part by a more robust Buck/Cardinal Club, enabling our head coaches and their staffs to focus their time and energy on coaching and recruiting instead of fundraising for basic operating budgets. Our donors will receive Buck/Cardinal Club benefits commensurate with their generosity.

Under the new Stanford Athletics annual giving program, the Buck/Cardinal Club will not only include its great scholarship tradition, but also assist the department’s coaches and staff in providing the resources needed to compete at the highest level of NCAA Division I athletics.

Instead of receiving solicitations from individual sports, donors and friends of Stanford Athletics will now receive a single solicitation from the Buck/Cardinal Club. By giving a gift to the Buck/Cardinal Club, the donor is giving both their favorite sport, and all of Stanford’s varsity sports, the budget resources they need. Donors will also have the opportunity to let us know which sports are their favorites at the time of the donation, and sports will keep in touch with donors who specify interest in that specific program.

For more information on the Buck/Cardinal Club and giving to Stanford Athletics, please call (650) 721-9081 or visit www.gostanford.com/giving.

Scholarship Funding

Stanford Athletic Endowed Scholarships

Endowed scholarships are large sums of money that have been invested in the University’s endowment and generate significant interest income each year. A portion of the income is spent on student aid and the remainder is reinvested in the principal. The following endowed scholarships, named for the donor or for someone the donor wishes to honor, provide full or partial grants-in-aid to members of the 2008 women’s volleyball team:

The John Arrillaga Athletic Scholarship II

The Clifford Steven Hayashi Scholarship

The Clarke and Elizabeth Nelson Scholarship

The Barnard Family Scholarship

The Johnson-Neal Athletic Scholarship

The Olivier/Nomellini Family Scholarship

The Don and Sally Clark Scholarship

The Kristin and Adam Keefe Family Scholarship

Stanford has won more national championships (6), appeared in more Final Fours (17), advanced to more national championship matches (13) and won more NCAA Tournament matches (87) than any program in the nation. Here's a look at some facts about the program's unparalleled success:

- Stanford's six national titles are double the total of any other program.
- Stanford's 13 appearances in NCAA title matches are more than the combined total of any conference in the nation (including the combined total of the other nine Pac-10 teams).
- Stanford has won 14 more NCAA Tournament matches than its next closest challenger.
- Only three programs – Stanford (13), UCLA (11) and Nebraska (10) have appeared in 10 or more Final Fours.
- Stanford is one of only two programs in the nation to have appeared in every NCAA Tournament.

Expectations were once again high for Don Shaw's Stanford club as it entered the 1992 season.

The Cardinal was coming off its best season yet, a 30-2 campaign that included a Pac-10 title and an 18-0 conference record. But the graduation of three players – Nicole Appleman, Amy Cooper and Kristin Klein – who had a combined eight seasons of starting experience, meant that the 1992 squad would not have it easy.

Easy it wasn't, but the Cardinal still achieved its ultimate goal – winning its first-ever NCAA title. The Cardinal (31-2) did it by upsetting previously unbeaten UCLA 15-8, 15-9, 6-15, 15-10 in the championship match in Albuquerque, NM.

Stanford won the crown on the shoulders of three seniors - Carrie Feldman, Bev Oden and Jennifer Jackson – and a standout newcomer, freshman Cary Wendell. Oden led the team for the season with 478 kills and Feldman, the team's setter, notched 1,248 assists.

The road to Albuquerque was definitely not an easy one. Stanford opened the season with a grueling eight-match road trip, but topped three ranked opponents and came home 8-0. Stanford then rallied through Pac-10 play, faltering only in its two meetings with UCLA. After UCLA handed Stanford its second loss of the season, however, the Cardinal would never lose again. Stanford closed the regular-season with a nine-match win streak, and gained momentum for the NCAA Tournament.

Stanford was anxious for a rematch with UCLA in the NCAA final, and the team got its wish. After sweeping Pittsburgh at home, the Cardinal captured the Mideast Regional crown by topping Penn State in three games and Illinois in four. In its first Final Four appearance in five years, the Cardinal then downed Long Beach State in four games to earn another chance at the Bruins.

The third time turned out to be a charm when the Bruins and Cardinal met in the title match. Behind all-tournament selections Feldman, Oden and Wendell, the Cardinal avenged its previous two losses to the Bruins with a four-game win to claim its first NCAA title.

After taking out three Pac-10 rivals already in the NCAA tournament, it was only fitting that Stanford should see UCLA, another Pac-10 foe, on the other side of the net in the championship match. The Cardinal and Bruins had already met twice previously in a title match, including Stanford's 1992 National Championship season. The Bruins, however, had also taken a title match from the Cardinal in the past and were responsible for the only loss on Stanford's impressive 1994 record.

But like 1992, Stanford came out on top, defeating its California rival 15-10, 5-15, 16-14, 15-13. The win helped the Cardinal claim its second NCAA title in three years, and conclude its best season ever. Junior Cary Wendell, the National Player of the Year, was the Cardinal standout, but All-American Marnie Triefenbach and a pair of promising newcomers – Kristin Folkl and Lisa Sharpley – helped lead the way. The Cardinal finished with a 32-1 record and its third Pac-10 title.

For the second straight season, Stanford entered the 1994 campaign ranked No. 1 in the country. With a young team in 1993, the Cardinal had gone 22-7 and lost in the NCAA Third Round. And with three freshmen in the starting lineup, the 1994 team was even younger.

Stanford had no trouble living up to the ranking, however, winning its first 20 matches. The Cardinal lost just four games during that stretch, which included wins over UCLA and eight other ranked opponents. The Cardinal finished the regular season with a Pac-10 title and a 27-1 record, blemished only by a five-game loss to UCLA.

The NCAA Tournament featured familiar opponents, as the Cardinal raced to the Final Four with three-game sweeps of Washington, Arizona State and USC. In the NCAA semifinal match, Stanford shut down Ohio State's highly-touted offense in a three-game win.

Stanford battled UCLA, the only team that it had fallen to in 1994, for the NCAA title in Austin, Texas. With the match tied at one game apiece, the Cardinal rallied back from late deficits in games three and four to take down the Bruins. Down 13-10 in the fourth game, Stanford reeled off the next five points, culminated by Eileen Murfee's block, to clinch the national title.

NCAA Championship Teams

Stanford did more than just win its third NCAA Women's Volleyball Championship on Dec. 21, 1996. It turned in one of the most dominating performances in collegiate women's volleyball championship history.

In that championship match, Stanford defeated Hawai'i 15-7, 15-3, 15-5 in just 91 minutes before a national television audience. The 15 points scored by the Rainbow Wahine was the lowest in championship match history and the second lowest in NCAA Final Four history. Stanford finished the season with a 31-2 record, and was led by veterans Lisa Sharpley and Kristin Folk along with freshman sensation Kerri Walsh.

Ironically, the turning point of Stanford's season came against the Rainbow Wahine in early November. After a disappointing setback against Washington State just six days earlier, Stanford stunned top-ranked Hawai'i in its own arena, putting on a show for the sold-out crowd.

Stanford was untouchable from that point on. The Cardinal won its final 14 matches and lost just two games during that stretch, which included eight wins over ranked opponents. The Cardinal went on to finish 17-1 in the Pac-10 and claim its third-straight conference title.

The NCAA Tournament featured more of the same. Stanford lost just one game in its five postseason matches, and only one match lasted more than two hours. The Cardinal swept Colorado State, then USC and Washington State, to reach the Final Four. In the squad's national semifinal match, it bounced back from a game one loss to top Nebraska, 3-1.

The highly-anticipated re-match with Hawai'i proved to be no contest. Hawai'i's only lead of the match was 1-0 in the third and final game. National Freshman of the Year and Final Four MVP Kerri Walsh ended matters with a cross-court kill to clinch Stanford's third NCAA title in five years.

The 1997 Stanford women's volleyball seniors turned in numerous show-stopping performances over the course of their four-year run atop the collegiate world, but saved the most memorable performance for last.

Kristin Folk, Barbara Ifejika, Debbie Lambert, Paula McNamee and Lisa Sharpley made their 125th and final win one for the ages as they outlasted Penn State in five games in one of the most thrilling NCAA Championship matches ever. The fivesome further etched its name into the national record book by becoming the first class ever to win three women's volleyball national titles in four seasons.

Stanford started the season 5-2, dropping two early battles with Penn State. The Cardinal, however, would not lose again. In fact, the team lost just six games the rest of the way en route to a 28-match winning streak and an undefeated record in the Pac-10.

The Cardinal's domination continued in the postseason, as it blew by Oklahoma, Colorado and UC Santa Barbara to earn a trip to Spokane, Wash. for the Final Four. Stanford won an exciting five-game battle with Long Beach State in the national semifinal and earned a third chance at Penn State.

This time, a national title was at stake and the Cardinal was more than ready to defend its 1996 crown.

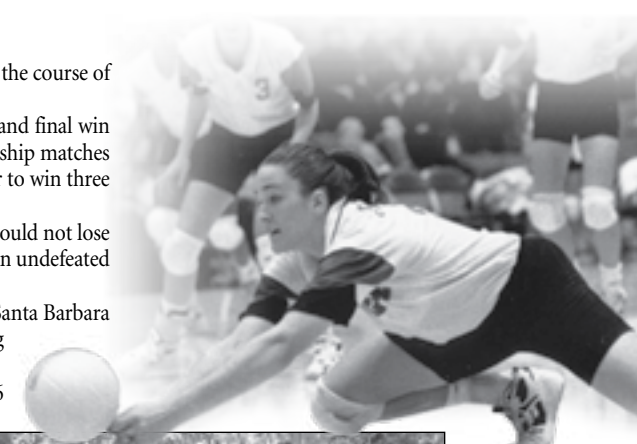

Stanford rolled through the first two games, 15-10, 15-6 before Penn State took a decisive game three, 15-2. Game four featured 58 sideouts and lasted 44 minutes, but the Nittany Lions reeled off two consecutive points at 15-15 to send the match to five games.

Stanford took immediate control in the fifth game, scoring six of the first eight points. The Nittany Lions pulled the score to 13-9 before the Cardinal put the match away in fitting fashion. Folk wrapped up her brilliant collegiate career with back-to-back kills that gave Stanford (33-2) its fourth national title.

No one was quite sure what to expect of the 2001 Stanford women's volleyball team - not even new Head Coach John Dunning. But as the season progressed, everyone could sense something magical was happening.

The Cardinal played its first 11 matches on the road to open the season, and went 10-1 with a four-game loss to Long Beach State near the end of the trip. Stanford would encounter its next roadblock in conference play in Los Angeles, falling to USC in four games.

That loss would prove to be the last for Stanford in 2001. A string of 19 consecutive wins followed - some easy, some hard - but all built character. In the match to decide the Pac-10 Championship, the Cardinal fell behind 0-2 to Arizona, but rallied to win the final three games and take the match. The victory gave Stanford its seventh Pac-10 title in eight years and the knowledge that it could win big games.

Stanford breezed past Nevada, San Jose State, Utah and Texas A&M to reach the Final Four, where second-ranked Nebraska was waiting. The Cardinal swept the Huskers and found itself in its ninth national championship match. And so the season came down to this - Stanford would face top-ranked and undefeated Long Beach State for the title, the same team the Cardinal had lost to early in the season. But this wasn't the same Cardinal that had faced the 49ers in late September.

Long Beach State reached game point at 29-27 in the first game, but the Cardinal battled and earned a 31-29 come-from-behind win. Stanford won another tight contest in the second game, taking a 30-28 decision from the 49ers. In game three, Stanford continued to fight and a Cardinal block by Logan Tom and Tara Conrad closed out the game and the match at 30-25, giving Stanford (33-2) an unprecedented fifth national championship.

National Player of the Year Logan Tom was tabbed MVP of the Final Four while teammates Ashley Ivy, Ogonna Nnamani and Robyn Lewis earned all-tournament honors.

It was a season of ups and downs for the 2004 Cardinal women's volleyball team. The squad began the season ranked sixth in the nation, dropped to as low as 14th in the middle but, in the end, thanks to hard work and dedication, Stanford captured yet another NCAA title.

Senior Ogonna Nnamani, the 2004 National Player of the Year, was the anchor of the Cardinal, but sophomore All-American Kristin Richards and freshman setter Bryn Kehoe helped lead the charge to the title.

Stanford started the season a shaky 3-2 and by mid-season had chalked up a 15-6 mark. The Cardinal, however, was ready to make a move straight to the top. The squad ran off 15 straight victories, including a 30-23, 30-27, 30-21 sweep of Minnesota in the national championship match. In its 15-match march to the NCAA crown, the Cardinal lost only seven games and won 45. Stanford stomped through the back half of the Pac-10 schedule, avenging losses to conference foes USC and Washington the second time around. In the opening NCAA rounds, the Cardinal routed Jacksonville before edging Florida on the Gators' home court. The team was then perfect at Regionals, sweeping Texas and Wisconsin to advance to the Final Four. The Cardinal handed the Pac-10 Champion Washington Huskies another loss in the NCAA semifinals and earned the right to face Minnesota for another national title.

The Cardinal, with momentum from its semifinal win over Washington, scored a three-game sweep over the Golden Gophers in the championship match, before an arena crowd of 8,826 and an ESPN nationally-televvised audience.

Stanford faced early deficits in each of the three games, but had no trouble bouncing back and pulling out wins. Minnesota's 6-3 advantage in the first game was its last before a series of Cardinal runs put Stanford in control. A 6-4 lead in game two was the Golden Gophers' last before the Cardinal stormed back and a 9-6 advantage in game three was also quickly reversed by Stanford. Nnamani, who set an NCAA Tournament record with 145 kills, pounded down her 29th of the match to seal Stanford's unprecedented sixth national title.

Bruce Downing

Bruce Downing has the distinction of being the Cardinal's varsity women's volleyball coach when the program began in 1976. That first year, Stanford posted a 9-3 record (.750) and finished second in conference play

(NCIAC).

Art Lambert

1977

Art Lambert coached the Stanford women's volleyball team in 1977 to a 23-7-1 overall record and an 11-2 mark in conference play (NorCal). The Cardinal won its first conference title that year. Lambert was also the men's volleyball coach from 1976-78 and led the team to two conference championships and had one team qualify for the Northern California Regional Championships. He was also a very successful water polo coach on The Farm, as he coached men's water polo for three years and won two Pac-8 titles and one NCAA Championship in 1976. He was the head coach of the United States Pan-American Games team that won a gold medal in water polo in 1967, and also head coach of the U.S. team in the 1968 Olympics in Mexico City.

Fred Sturm

Fred Sturm took over the Stanford women's volleyball team in 1978 and spent the next eight seasons building the Cardinal into a nationally recognized and respected program. Sturm compiled an impressive 193-83-3 (.699) record during his tenure, winning two conference titles and finishing second at the 1984 and 1985 NCAA Championships. He led the Cardinal to four consecutive Final Four appearances and five NCAA postseason berths – including the program's first postseason appearance in 1981. He was tabbed WCAA Co-Coach of the Year in 1984. He also coached the Stanford men's volleyball team from 1979-1990. Sturm was named the ASICS NCAA Coach of the Year in 1989 after his men's squad finished second in the nation. He was the head coach for the 1992 U.S. Men's Volleyball Team that competed in Barcelona, Spain at the Summer Olympics. Sturm also coached the U.S. Men's Volleyball Team that competed at the 1987 World University Games.

Don Shaw spent 16 years as the Stanford women's volleyball head coach (1984-1999), during which he led the team to unparalleled success. Shaw guided the Cardinal to four NCAA Championships (1992, 1994, 1996, 1997) and 10 conference titles, including six Pac-10

Championships in a row from 1994-1999. Shaw compiled a career winning percentage of .863 (440-70), which still ranks as the best in NCAA history. In NCAA Tournament action, Shaw tallied a record of 50-12, guiding Stanford to 12 Final Four appearances and the NCAA Championship match eight times in 16 seasons. He was named AVCA Women's Coach of the Year in 1991 and 1997, and Regional/District Coach of the Year in 1992, 1994 and 1997. In all, he guided Stanford to the NCAA Championship match eight times in his 16 seasons. He also served as an assistant coach for the gold medal-winning United States Men's Team at the 1982 National Sports Festival, as well as the assistant for the U.S. Women's Team at the 1991 Pan-Am Games in Havana, Cuba. Shaw began his coaching career at Stanford in 1980 as an assistant to the women's program. In 1984, he was named Co-Head Coach of both the men's and women's teams with Fred Sturm, a position he held for two seasons. Shaw was named head coach of the women's program in 1986. He guided the Cardinal through 14 more successful seasons until retiring from the women's program in 1999. In 2001, Shaw accepted the head coaching position for the Stanford men's volleyball team. Through six seasons as the head men's coach, Shaw collected a 90-79 (.533) record.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY

Stanford University at a Glance

On October 1, 1891, the 465 new students who were on hand for opening day ceremonies at Leland Stanford Junior University greeted Leland and Jane Stanford enthusiastically, with a chant they had made up and rehearsed only that morning. Wah-hoo! Wah-hoo! L-S-J-U! Stanford! Its wild and spirited tone symbolized the excitement of this bold adventure. As a pioneer faculty member recalled, "Hope was in every heart, and the presiding spirit of freedom prompted us to dare greatly."

For the Stanford's on that day, the university was the realization of a dream and a fitting tribute to the memory of their only son, who had died of typhoid fever weeks before his sixteenth birthday. Far from the nation's center of culture and unencumbered by tradition or ivy, the new university drew students from all over the country: many from California; some who followed professors hired from other colleges and universities; and some simply seeking adventure in the West. Though there were many difficulties during the first months – housing was inadequate, microscopes and books were late in arriving from the East – the first year foretold of greatness. As Jane Stanford wrote in the summer of 1892, "Even our fondest hopes have been realized."

Ideas of "Practical Education"

Governor and Mrs. Stanford had come from families of modest means and had built their way up through a life of hard work. So it was natural that their first thoughts were to establish an institution where young men and women could "grapple successfully with the practicalities of life." As their thoughts matured, these ideas of "practical education" enlarged to the concept of producing cultured and useful citizens who were well-prepared for professional success.

Nearly 116 years later, the university still enjoys the original 8,180 acres (almost 13 square miles) of grassy fields, eucalyptus groves, and rolling hills that were the Stanford's generous legacy, as well as the Quadrangle of "long corridors with their stately pillars" at the center of campus. It is still true, as the philosopher William James said, during his stint as a visiting professor, that the climate is "so friendly ... that every morning wakes one fresh for new amounts of work."

Current Perspectives

In other ways, the university has changed tremendously on its way to recognition as one of the world's great universities. At the hub of a vital and diverse Bay Area, Stanford is less than hour's drive south of San Francisco and just a few minutes north of the Silicon Valley, an area dotted with computer and high technology firms largely spawned by the university's faculty and graduates. On campus, students and faculty enjoy new libraries, modern laboratories, tremendous sports and recreation facilities, and comfortable residences. Contemporary sculpture, as well as pieces from the Stanford Museum's extensive collection of sculpture by Auguste Rodin, is placed throughout the campus, providing unexpected pleasures at many turns. At the Stanford Medical Center, world-renowned for its research, teaching, and patient care, scientists and physicians are searching for answers to fundamental questions about health and disease. Ninety miles down the coast, at Stanford's Hopkins Marine Station on the Monterey Bay, scientists are working to better understand the mechanisms of evolution, human development, and ecological systems.

The university is organized into seven schools: Earth Sciences, Education, Engineering, the Graduate School of Business, Humanities and Sciences, Law and Medicine. In addition, there are more than 30 interdisciplinary centers, programs, and research laboratories – including the Hoover Institution on War, Revolution and Peace; the Institute for International Studies; the Stanford Linear Accelerator Center; and the Stanford Center for the Study of Families, Children and Youth – where faculty from a wide range of fields bring different perspectives to bear on issues and problems. Stanford's Overseas Studies Program offers students in all fields remarkable opportunities for study abroad, with campuses in Australia, Beijing, Berlin, Cape Town, Florence, Kyoto, Madrid, Moscow, Oxford, Paris, and Santiago.

Stanford People

By any measure, Stanford's faculty – which numbers just over 1,800 – is one of the most distinguished in the nation. As of the June of 2007, the faculty included 18 Nobel Laureates, four Pulitzer Prize winners, 24 MacArthur Fellows, 21 recipients of the National Medal of Science, three National Medley of Technology recipients, 228 members of the National Academy of Arts and Sciences, 135 members of the National Academy of Sciences, 83 National Academy of Engineering members, 29 members of the National Academy of Education, seven Wolf Foundation Prize winners, seven winners of the Koret Foundation Prize and three Presidential Medal of Freedom winners. Yet beyond their array of honors, what truly distinguishes Stanford faculty is their commitment to sharing knowledge with their students. The great majority of professors teach undergraduates both in introductory lecture classes and in small advanced seminars.

Currently 14881 students, of which 6689 are undergraduates, live and study on campus. A little more than 40 percent come from California, but all 50 states and approximately 68 countries are represented as well. Among undergraduates, approximately 55 percent are African American, Asian American, International, Mexican American, Native American, Native Hawai'ian or Other Hispanic in ethnicity.

Like the faculty, the Stanford student body is distinguished. Approximately 10 students apply to Stanford for every place in the freshman class with 89% of those admitted finishing in the top 10% of their high school class. Ninety-four Stanford students have been named Rhodes Scholars, 74 have been selected Marshall Award winners, and 49 have been chosen Truman Scholars. Nearly 90 percent of graduating seniors plan to attend graduate or professional schools. Stanford students also shine in a tremendous array of activities outside the classroom – from student government to music, theater, and journalism. Through the Haas Center for Public Service, students participate in many community service activities, such as tutoring programs for children in nearby East Palo Alto, the Hunger Project, and the Arbor Free Clinic.

In the athletic arena, Stanford students have enjoyed tremendous success as well. Stanford fields teams in 36 Division I varsity sports (15 men, 20 women, 1 co-ed). Of Stanford's 95 NCAA titles (107 national), 55 have been captured since 1990, by far the most in the nation. Thirty-eight of Stanford's athletes and coaches participated in the 1992 Olympics in Barcelona, 49 competed in Atlanta at the 1996 Games, 34 represented Stanford at the 2000 Games in Sydney, and 43 Stanford associates competed at the 2004 Games in Athens. Intramural and club sports are also popular; over 1,000 students take part in the club sports program, while participation in the intramural program has reached 9,000, with many students active in more than one sport.

Looking Ahead

In her address to the Board of Trustees, in 1904, Jane Stanford said, "... Let us not be afraid to outgrow old thoughts and ways, and dare to think on new lines as to the future of the work under our care."

Her thoughts echo in the words of former Stanford President Gerhard Casper, who has said, "The true university must reinvent itself every day ... At Stanford, these are days of such reconsideration and fresh support for our

THE JAQUISH &
KENNINGER
ATHLETICS

One of the most respected and admired athletic administrators in the nation, Bob Bowlsby enters his third full year as the Jaquish & Kenninger Director of Athletics at Stanford University, a position he was appointed to on April 25, 2006 after spending 15 years at the helm of the University of Iowa's athletic program. In his initial two years in the position, Stanford has continued its well-earned reputation of fielding the most successful and wide-ranging Division I-A athletic programs in the nation.

As Stanford's sixth athletic director, Bowlsby succeeds Ted Leland (1991-2005), Andy Geiger (1979-90), Joe Ruetz (1972-78), Chuck Taylor (1963-71) and Al Masters (1925-63). Bowlsby directs a department that includes 35 intercollegiate varsity teams – 15 men's, 19 women's and one coed – plus the physical education department, intramurals, club sports, open recreation and the Stanford Golf Course. The department has an annual budget of approximately $75 million and a staff of over 225.

"Bob Bowlsby represents the best professional and personal values when it comes to student-athletes," said Stanford University Provost John Etchemendy. "He understands that the success of an athletics program is not simply measured in wins and losses, but in the academic achievements and character of the young women and men who work so hard on the field and in the classroom."

Under his administrative guidance, Stanford claimed its unprecedented 14th straight U.S. Sports Academy Directors' Cup last year, emblematic of the top overall program in the country. Sixteen Stanford teams boasted Top 10 finishes, winning national championships in women's cross country and synchronized swimming. In addition, the women's volleyball, women's basketball and men's golf teams enjoyed runner-up NCAA Tournament finishes in their respective sports, while the men's basketball team advanced to the Sweet 16 of the NCAA Tournament. Eight Stanford teams claimed conference championships.

Stanford's student-athletes were also highly-decorated last season. Two players – Foluke Akinradewo (women's volleyball) and Candice Wiggins (women's basketball) – earned national player of the year honors while nine student-athletes earned conference player of the year marks. In addition, three student-athletes – Hilary Barte (women's tennis), Alex Clayton (men's tennis) and Alix Klineman (women's volleyball) – earned national freshman of the year accolades.

Stanford student-athletes continue to excel in the classroom, as 14 Cardinal student-athletes earned academic All-America status during the 2007-08 season. Six Stanford student-athletes – Neftalem Araia (cross country), Russell Brown (track and field), Rachel Buehler (women's soccer), Tanner Gardner (wrestling), Rob Grube (men's golf) and Arianna Lambie (women's cross country) – were named Pac-10 Scholar Athletes of the Year.

Ten Stanford student-athletes – Araia, Buehler, Dylan Carney (men's gymnastics), Michael Garcia (men's track and field), Gardner, Sandy Hohener (men's water polo), Graeme Hoste (men's track and field), Josh Hustedt (track and field), Lambie and Laura Shane (lacrosse) – were named NCAA Postgraduate Scholars. In addition, Carney was the recipient of the Walter Byers Postgraduate Scholarship, the highest academic honor in intercollegiate athletics.

Bowlsby continues to leave his mark in Stanford's coaching circles. Under first-year head coach Jim Harbaugh, the Stanford football team was one of the most improved squads in the Pac-10 Conference last season, as evident of wins over top-ranked (USA Today) USC and defending Pac-10 Conference co-champion Cal. Last spring, Bowlsby ushered in a new era of Stanford basketball with the hiring of head coach Johnny Dawkins.

Throughout his career, Bowlsby has emerged as a national leader in intercollegiate and amateur athletics. He was named in February, 2007, to the United States Olympic Committee Board of Directors.

He has previously served as President of the NCAA Division I-A Athletic Directors' Association (2002-03), Chair of the NCAA Division I Men's Basketball Committee for two years (2003-05) and a committee member for five years, Chair of the Big Ten Administrator's Council (2002-04) and Chair of the NCAA Management Council.

Bowlsby was appointed by President George Bush as a member of the Commission on Opportunities in Athletics in 2002-03. The committee was led by U.S. Secretary of Education Rod Paige.

Bowlsby was elected chair of the NCAA Olympic Sports Liaison Committee and represented the NCAA as one of two voting members on the United States Olympic Committee Board of Directors. He served as a member of the NCAA/U.S. Olympic Committee Task Force chaired by Cedric Dempsey and George Steinbrenner.

In addition, Bowlsby served as chair of the NCAA Wrestling Committee and has served on NCAA committees on Financial Aid and Amateurism, the Special Committee to Review Amateurism Issues and the Special Committee to Review Financial Conditions in Athletics.

Bowlsby has also served as an Executive Committee member with both the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics and the Division I-A Athletic Directors Association and served as President of the I-A organization for two years.

The National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics (NACDA) named Bowlsby in 2001-02 as Central Region Athletic Director of the Year and Sports Business Journal selected him from the four regional award winners as the National Athletics Director of the Year. The award highlights the efforts of the athletic directors for their commitment and positive contributions to campuses and their surrounding communities.

As the chief administrator for Iowa's athletic department from 1991-2006, Bowlsby earned a reputation as one of the most admired, energetic and ambitious athletic administrators in the nation. Bowlsby guided and supervised the merger of the Hawkeye's women's and men's athletics departments while enabling Iowa to maintain its standing as one of the most visible and successful Division I athletic programs.

Under his leadership, Iowa enjoyed unprecedented success and growth in the area of fund raising and facilities. Bowlsby and the UI Development staff put in place $25 million in endowments to help support Hawkeye student-athlete scholarship aid. In addition, he managed the planning and construction of $120 million in facility projects on campus, including an $87 million renovation to Kinnick Stadium.

A native of Waterloo, Iowa, Bowlsby became Iowa's 10th Athletic Director in June, 1991, after serving in the same role at the University of Northern Iowa since 1984. Bowlsby earned his bachelor's degree from Moorhead State University (Minnesota) in 1975 and his master's degree from the University of Iowa in 1978. He and his wife, Candice, have four children: Lisa, Matt, Rachel and Kyle.

Principles That Guide Us

2008 STANFORD WOMEN'S VOLLEYBALL

We Will Teach

- By encouraging our student-athletes to capture all the joy, power and extraordinary personal growth that comes to those who compete and support athletic excellence.
- By hiring and retaining the best coaches and staff members available and arming them with the tools to achieve at the highest level.
- By fostering and nurturing a coaching, physical education and recreation staff that is committed to teaching with integrity & ambition and that performs in a manner which is consistent with the academic priorities of Stanford University.
- By recognizing the need to work as a team while valuing each individual's unique characteristics and abilities.
- By committing ourselves to the personal development and well being of our student-athletes and staff. Those who participate at all levels will learn the benefits of teamwork, discipline, goal setting, physical fitness, healthy lifestyles, character development, self confidence, sportsmanship, and an appreciation for lifelong learning.

We Will Lead

- By being the model of success, of universal opportunity, and of unwavering commitment to the ideal of the scholar-athlete.
- By operating with integrity as we follow the spirit and the letter of each rule. Integrity will be displayed in our policies, performances and programs.
- By continuing our long history of conference and national prominence through a commitment to cutting edge involvement in athletic issues.

We Will Win

- By maximizing our effort in every competition, on every team and in every setting where skill, determination and hard work combine to achieve singularly successful results.
- By having an uncompromising commitment to Conference and National championships and by providing each student-athlete with the tools necessary to be successful at the highest levels of both academic and athletic performance.
- By creating a commitment to a university-wide wellness culture that will allow Stanford students, faculty and staff to maximize their health and fitness opportunities throughout their lives.

We Will Serve

- By respecting, honoring and responding to the needs of our student-athletes, coaches, colleagues, advocates and members of our larger community.
- By encouraging innovation and creativity. We will harness technology to extend our reach and to interface with our various internal and external constituencies.
- Through fiscal responsibility in all elements of departmental operations.
- By advancing outreach as a fundamental component of the department, we will strive to enhance the overall mission of the University through competitive excellence, effective outreach and an on-going commitment to customer service.
- By utilizing the department resources and physical facilities to serve the campus community, our alumni and our supporters throughout the world.
- By valuing our heritage, and in doing so we commit ourselves to championship caliber athletic achievement and the on-going enhancement of the traditions of Stanford Athletics, including leadership, individual and team achievement & intense pride and loyalty.

Department of Athletics, Physical Education, and Recreation

MISSION STATEMENT

From its founding in 1891, Stanford University's leaders have believed that physical activity is valuable for its own sake and that vigorous exercise is complementary to the educational purposes of the university. Within this context for human development, it is the mission of Stanford's Department of Athletics, Physical Education and Recreation to offer a wide range of high quality programs which will encourage and facilitate all participants to realize opportunities for championship athletic participation, physical fitness, health and well being.

Stanford captured its unprecedented 14th consecutive U.S. Sports Academy Directors' Cup last year, finishing with a total of 1461 points after placing in 21 postseason championships and earning points in the maximum 10 women's sports and nine men's sports. Stanford boasted an impressive 12 top-five finishes, winning a national championship in women's cross country, placing second in women's volleyball, women's basketball, men's gymnastics and men's golf, third in men's and women's swimming, women's gymnastics, women's water polo and fifth in women's indoor track and field and women's tennis. Stanford also finished seventh in men's indoor track, eighth in fencing, ninth in women's soccer, softball and men's basketball, 17th in men's tennis and 19th in men's cross country and wrestling.

Fall

Stanford finished fall competition with 315 points, good for third place in the Division I Sports Academy Directors' Cup standings behind California (370) and USC (343). The Cardinal scored points in five of nine fall sports, led by a strong showing by the women's cross country team, which captured its third straight NCAA championship. The women's volleyball team made another appearance in the NCAA title match, while the women's field hockey (9th), women's soccer (NCAA third round) and men's cross country teams (19th NAAs) all enjoyed strong fall showings.

Winter

Stanford took control of the Directors' Cup standings with a strong showing in the winter, as 10 Cardinal teams accounted for 767 points. Stanford women's basketball team advanced to the championship game of the NCAA Tournament while the Cardinal men's and women's gymnastics team finished second and third, respectively, at the NCAA Championships. Stanford finished third in men's and women's swimming, fifth in women's indoor track and field, seventh in men's indoor track and field, eighth in fencing, ninth in men's basketball and 19th in wrestling.

Spring

Stanford teams followed up their strong winter performances with an impressive spring, netting 468.00 points. The Stanford women's water polo team placed third at the NCAA Championships while the men's golf team and women's tennis team finished second and fifth, respectively, at their NCAA Championship events. Stanford also placed ninth in women's track and field, 17th in men's tennis and 25th in women's golf.

Directors' Cup Overview

The Sports Academy Directors' Cup was developed as a joint effort between the National Collegiate Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics (NACDA) and the USA Today in 1993-94 in an effort to honor universities that strive for success in all of their sports programs. The program was expanded in 1995-96 to include Division II, III and the NAIA. Each institution is awarded points based on an institutions finish in 20 sports – 10 each for men and women.
